Rudy Asks, 'Do Colleges Need Reform'

"Do the colleges need reforming?" asked Dr. Norman Rudy, professor of statistics and engineering, in opening his covocation address Thursday.

Narrowing his scope to the four-year liberal arts or general colleges such as Sacramento State, he named two groups who felt no reform was necessary: the general public and the colleges themselves. Their attention seemed to be glued to the problems of handing greater volume, and not reform.

"Some clues as to the possible needs for reform can be found in the studies of the effectiveness of the college experience, "Rudy asserted. It is in the lives of the alumni that we see whether colleges need reforming. Whatever evidence is available, apart from the vocational results, seems to show that college has little effect on the quality of the lives lived by the grauates, he added.

Graduate Indistinguishable

"In the main, college graduates read or do not read in about the same way as their less fortunate neighbors, use their leisure time in about the same ways, and in virtually all things except vocations and income, are indistinguishable from the uncolleged" Rudy said.

Another clue to the need for reform comes the prospectus of a new campus of the University of California at Santa Cruz, he continued. Chancellor Dean E. McHenry has presented a ten point philosophy, each point of which constitutes an element of reform.

"For example," Rudy pointed out, "he pledges to stand for a shift from the free elective, permissive curriculum to one that places more emphasis on common core of basic subjects, and to erase impersonality by intergrating the teaching and living arrangements."

Stating his intention to persuade his audience that colleges do need reforming, he discussed the goals of college education.

More than 1,000 students voted in the ASSSC elections Friday to pass the new constitution by an overwhelming majority and select Darryl Enos to the top executive position.

Chairman of the Board of Directors will be George Miller, elected vice-president in a 596 to 343 tally over Leo Rodriguez.

In the other contested major office, John Fitzgerald substantially defeated Pat Gavin for men's representative by a vote of 224 to 96.

The new bylaws, which were favored 866 to 121, will separate the executive post from the legistature and give the student body president a veto power. Two-thirds approval of the total votes cast were needed to put it into effect.

Amendment Passes

The amendment to require candidates for ASSSC office to pass examinations on the scope and structure of the association received 799 yes and 233 no votes.

Unopposed candidates Bill Rozell, treasurer, and Donna Arrigone, women's representative, will complete the slate of major officers for next year's council.

In the division of Humanities and Fine Arts, Jack Prichett was voted as representative by 102 of 105 cast. David Wilhelm polled 71 votes to win the office of Science and Mathematics representative over David Dudley, 34, and Robert Howell with 29.

Connerly, Stanley Fill Vacant Position on Foundation Board

Board of Directors Wednesday accepted president Wardell Connerly's recommendation to appoint himself and Dave Stanley to positions on the Hornet Foundation Board recently vacated by John Plantania.

Merritt's resignation from the Foundation Board was included in his letter to the BOD announcing his resignation as men's representative. Plantania's post was left vacant when he withdrew from school.

The men's representative continued vacant after board members declined to accept Connerly's recommendation that George Miller be appointed to fill it.

Action was deferred on proposed additions to the bylaws until the board had more time to consider them. The additions, suggested by treasurer John McConnell, are that:

1. Minutes will be kept of each meeting of the ASSSC Board of Directors in accordance with the procedures set forth in Robert's Rules of Order, Revised and will be available for inspection by any member of the ASSSC during regular business hours.

2. A current copy of the charter, constitution, and any other rules or regulartions made by the ASSSC or any subdivision of the ASSSC will be kept and will be available for inspection by any member of the ASSSC during regular business hours.

3. A current copy of the ASSSC budget including any modifications made by or with the permission of the BOD or any other person or body with authority to make changes shall be kept and shall be available for inspection by any member of the ASSSC during regular business hours.

4. Financial statements in good form and following "generally accepted accounting principles" as defined by the American Institute of Certified Accountants shall be published in the school newspaper within four months after the close of the ASSSC's accounting period. If the ASSSC does not publish a newspaper, the financial statements shall be printed and distributed to interested members of the ASSSC within four months after the close of the ASSSC's accounting period.

Convocation Speaker

Rudy Names Educational Goals

jectives, he continued: to transmit to them the culture of the society and to help them achieve the greatest possible personal development. These objectives revolve around the questions of what do people need to know if they are to live in our world and to ensure its perpetuation? and what qualities as a person should the individual have, he said.

The first, Rudy asserted, leads in education to the inculcation of skills and knowledge and a faculty role of information-giving. The faculty role in personal development is concerned with character development.

He pinpointed curriculum as another area of reform, stating that ordinary curriculum represents a kind of organization which is very efficient and allows departments their rights and privileges with little or no concern for the intellectual problems of the student.

Rudy criticized the academic disciplines. "The student who doesn't begin with a committment to an academic discipline fills in general requirements and wanders aimlessly about hoping to find a man who will speak to his particular intellectual problems" he said.

He questioned the purpose of the over-abundance of courses within departments, and brought out the integration, or lack of it, of ideas between disciplines.

"The Honors Program at this college tries to involve at least two disciplines in a number of courses, which is a step in the right direction," he said. "But if the direction is right for Honors students, it is even more right for the general student. I conclude: the curriculum needs reform."

Instruction, Rudy maintained, was also largely concerned with information-giving. Restricted by institutional arrangements, typical instruction makes students passive spectators rather than active participants.

Touching on the role of the student in college reform, Rudy expressed amazement at the manner in which students endured their sheer unmitigated drudgery with little complaint.

If students should challenge their teachers, he stated, some trivial subject matter might be shamed out of the classroom; teachers might have to return to the foundations of their discipline to find the problems that brought it into being, and perhaps the frustration which teachers feel as a result of polite toleration would be reduced.

Avoid Problems

"I would rather face a class which holds that I am wrong in my views than one which feels my views are irrelevant" he added.

Teachers, he asserted, are much better at dealing with specialized academic problems than with the students intellectual problems, and thus they avoid the latter.

"This futile game has been played long enough," Rudy emphasized, "I challenge both faculty and students to give up what they are good at and to do what is good."

Two Seniors Are Completing Honors Forum

The Senior Honors Forum is now in progress, announced Dr. Harry Aron, assistant professor of psychology with the first meeting held April 12.

Aron states that this is the last phase of the honors program, which determines successful graduation from the program. Currently two candidates, Dennis McFadden and Miye Nakamura, are enrolled in the forum.

The forum is a six-unit course in which the student is required to orally present three independent study projects in honors and take an oral and nine hour written examination over a selected list of books from three divisions of liberal arts. These topics, from the humanities and fine arts, social science and science and mathematics field, vary according to the student's projects.

All meetings are open to the public with the exception of the written examinations. Next meeting will be held May 17.

Greenwald Sets New Mark With 9:34.3 In Two-Mile

The Hornet track squad, behind the record-breaking performances of two-miler Dan Greenwald and the mile relay team, scored a 92-29 victory over Humboldt State College Saturday on the SSC track.

Distance runner Greenwald ran his specialty in the fast time of 9:34.3, breaking the record of 9:36 set last year by Jose Ramirez.

The mile relay foursome of Ray Reynon, Bob Rackley, Don Brown and Dan Bomann romped to a record time of 3:30.6, which broke the old record of 3:21.1 set only last Tuesday against Chico State.

Brown ran a third lap of :48.2, while anchorman Bomann ran his lap in :48.9.

The Hornets had three double winners in the meet. Bill Whitaker captured the discus with a heave of 155-3 and the shotput with a toss of 47.0. Jake Reimers won both hurdle events, clocking :15.5 in the 120 high hurdles and :24.3 in the 220 lows. Brown, in addition to being on the victorious relay team, won the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds flat and then captured the 220 yard dash with a time of :22.3.

SSC's Art Williams won the mile run with a time of 4:27.7 while Boman took honors in the 440 with a time of :50.6. Mel Ross topped the javelin event, throwing the spear 188-2¼, while Gene Reyes won the broad jump with a leap of 20-7¼.

The Lumberjacks from Humboldt could only muster one first place tie as Frank Sperry and Bud Edson tied the Hornets' Bill Hansen in the pole vault, at a height of 12-0.

SSC will enter the San Jose State invitational meet Saturday in preparation for the Far Western Conference Meet to be held on the Hornets' oval a week from Saturday.

The University of Nevada will be the heavy favorite to repeat as FWC champions, with San Francisco State College and SSC fighting for second place.

The powerful Wolfpack routed the Hornets in a dual meet in Reno during the Easter break, and in their last FWC outing, trounced the University of California Aggies 118-13.

The 'gators of San Francisco State defeated the Hornets in dual meet competition earlier in the season, earning a close one-point decision by sweeping all three places in the two-mile run.

Horsehiders Capture Twin-Bill From Chico

Behind booming bats and the pitching arms of Dick Bach and Wally Marks, Hornet horsehiders took a double header from the Chico State Wildcats 9-6 and 13-3 at Chico Saturday on Far Western Conference play.

Bach got plenty of support from the SSC hitters in the opener as shortstop Les Kuhnz and third-baseman Len Napoli each poked home runs, Kuhnz' coming in the second inning with the sacks jammed. Napoli's was three-run shot in the fifth.

In the nightcap Marks went the distance, helped by 13 Hornet base hits and seven free passes from Chico pitching.

Again it was Napoli supplying some long ball power as he belted a bases-loaded triple. The hard hitting third sacker managed to slam out seven hits in eight trips to thep late in the twin bill.

Andy Braio had two hits in each game and Jim Greene came up with two singles in the nightcap. Kuhnz had one hit each game.

Tomorrow afternoon coach Cal Boyes horsehiders will tangle with the University of Santa Clara on the Hornets diamond in a 3 p.m. encounter.

Net Team Does Whitewash Job On Lumberjacks

The Hornet net team moved another ostep closer to its eighth consecutive FWC title when it whitewashed Humboldt State 7-0 in a match played in San Francisco.

The Hornets posted a 9-0 victory over the University of Pacific on the local courts last Thursday, and, coupled with the win over Humboldt, have now brought their record for the season to 12-2.

Results (SSC 9, UOP 0)

Roger Cooper def. Frank Francois 6-3, 6-1; Gil Howard def. John Thomas 6-0, 6-2; Mike Cummer def. Allen Nokkelson 6-0, 6-1; Ron Yamagami def. Mike Cusenovich 6-0, 6-1; Jasraj Singh def. Chuck Bender 6-0, 6-2; Dal Williams def. Bill Turner 6-2, 6-0.

Cummer and Williams def. Francois and Thomas 6-4, 6-3; Bud Travers and Tim Williams def. Nekkelson and Cusenovich 6-2, 7-5; Singh and Ted Lindberg def. Bender and Turner 6-3, 6-1.

Tuesday the Hornets travel to Berkeley to take on the University of California over the Claremont Country Club course. The Bears are the only team to defeat SSC in dual competition this spring.

SFS Retains Swim Crown; Hornet Swimmers 4th
